Canada Reads 2008 Winner

continue reading

Canada's popular battle of the books returns, and BTC Audiobooks is once again posed to release the Canada Reads winner as an audiobook. No radio display since Peter Gzowski's Morningside has created as many instant bestsellers as Canada Reads -- nor been as adept at reading the heat range of the days. In this nail-biting game of literary Survivor, five celebrity panellists choose a book they think all Canadians should read and then debate their picks on national radio (and television) over a full week. Simply consider Heather O'Neill's Lullabies for Little Criminals, Miriam Toews' AN ELABORATE Kindness, or the dark-equine of 2005, Frank Parker Day's Rockbound. Hundreds of thousands of listeners tune in each day to discover which author's work has been eliminated, and which lives another day.
