Cyber space influences all sectors of existence and society: Artificial Intelligence, Robots, Blockchain, Self-Driving Vehicles and Autonomous Weapons, Cyberbullying, telemedicine and cyber wellness, new methods in meals production, destruction and conservation of the environment, Big Data while a new religion, the function of education and citizens' rights, the necessity for legal regulations and international conventions. It really is an invitation for dialogue, debate and solutions. Authors from many countries and positions of worldwide (UN) organisations look for solutions from an ethical perspective. The book acts as reading materials for teachers, students, plan manufacturers, politicians, businesses, hospitals, NGOs and religious organisations alike. The authors apply and modify fundamental values and virtues to specific, new challenges due to cyber technology and cyber society. Cyber Ethics aims to provide orientation on what is right and wrong, bad and the good, linked to the cyber space. The 25 articles in this book cover the wide variety of hot topics.
