The beliefs section focuses on the wisdom behind the creation of humankind and jinn. The five pillars are included in this section and presented along with related evidence from the Qur'an and the Sunnah.

These were prepared by special educationists who are experienced in developing curricula and who are familiar with the requirements of the mark group. The biography of the Prophet (s) focusing on the events before the Hijrah constitutes the Seerah section. The biography of Abu-Bakr (ra) is usually discussed in this section as well. They employed the newest techniques and educational aids. The Morals and Manners section handles the remembrances said when entering and leaving the masjid and also those uttered after Salah. These were ready relating to scientific bases, assimilating the most recent educational and emotional theories. The Student's Textbook contains the subject text of the lessons, exercises along with activities. The ICO project is definitely a distinguished one because: Our curricula meet up with the needs of the prospective audience for integrated, coherent, and appropriate curricula. The material is presented, utilizing a spiral approach, where students revisit each region and research it in better depth each year.

Learners are required to recite the entire 29th Juzu' and memorize Soorat Al-Mursalaat and Soorat Al-Insaan. Salah and its prerequisites, pillars, obligatory works, and all the relevant factors represent the learning content for the Religious Observances learning region. They experienced many quality control procedures, which were carried out by specialized committees, plus they were enhanced by teachers who evaluated the curricula before releasing them.
