There are five content areas in the book: 'Aqeedah (Islamic doctrine) The Glorious Qur'an and its own sciences Seerah (biography of the Prophet) and Islamic History 'Ibaadaat (Worship and Rituals) Morals and manners The material is presented using a spiral approach, where students revisit each area and study it in greater depth each year. They were made by unique educationists who are experienced in creating curricula and who are familiar with the requirements of the mark group. They went through many quality control processes, which were carried out by specialized committees, plus they were improved by teachers who evaluated the curricula before releasing them. These were prepared relating to scientific bases, assimilating the most recent educational and mental theories. The Student's Textbook contains the subject text message of the lessons, exercises in addition to activities. They employed the most recent techniques and educational aids. The ICO project is certainly a distinguished one because: Our curricula meet up with the needs of the prospective target audience for integrated, coherent, and appropriate curricula.
