About the Guide: Cryptocurrencies are a new type of technology which seeks to improve the world of finance; I have an engineering degree from LSU and 8 years of experience with computer technologies. I would like to answer the questions of a new trader and clarify the technology as basically as possible as quickly as possible. About the writer: I am an avid supporter of cryptocurrency and trading possibilities. This guide outlines your options a trader has and the essential steps are needed in order to enter the crypto environment. I firmly believe the near future is in technologies such as this and that we are still in only the beginning stages. offering quick payments, basic currency exchanges, and sensible contracts with no need for government intervention.
