For years the only way to monetize a site was through marketing, the income of the same have always been low for little blogs, currently the scenario has gotten a whole lot worse with the arrival of AdBlock. Today there is a much better answer compared to the old banner ads, which are the crypto-coins, with which you are able to mine whenever an individual is browsing or reading any web page of your blog, thus monetizing this content, mining is a wonderful solution, because so the user isn't bothered with a whole lot of advertisements on the web page, and your blog owner manages to gain with his function. AdBlock are plug-ins with the capacity of removing advertisements from the website page, therefore the user can read the pages without ads from the ad campaigns, and anyone who loses are the owners of your blog that stops making money because of AdBlock.
