When a professional states, "Your son or daughter has Autism Spectrum Disorder (ASD)", it is enough to make your whole world break apart. What will it mean to be on the autism spectrum? As the daddy of a daughter with ASD and as a trained psychiatrist who specializes in ASD, Dr. Michael A. In user-friendly tones, he answers the most commonly asked questions in what it's actually like to live with ASD, what medications and therapies are available, and the global influence it is wearing the child's environment. How will this affect schooling, your spiritual development, and everyday life? These are just some of the questions that will rapidly cross your mind. Ellis shares personal tales of their 10-yr journey to be able to offer insight and support for anybody - patient, mother or father, caregiver - traversing the difficulties of autism. How will this affect your child's life, your life, the life of your family, and others you connect to? What sorts of medicines, therapies, and alternative methods are used to help manage the disorder? Ellis offers a holistic watch of what employs diagnosis. What exactly are the monetary and legal ramifications? By using his wife, Lori Layton Ellis, to supply a mother's perspective, Dr. Looking after Autism: Practical Guidance from a Parent and Physician delves into each one of these questions and more.

This book gives real perspective to a caregiver! Superb book that covers most of the topics when dealing with ASD I would recommend this reserve for parents with newly diagnosed ASD kids. Michael, for a job well performed. As a professional therapist working with ASD college students in a residential system, as well as raising a daughter with ASD I found this book helpful and supportive.!! I strongly suggested this book to a care giver. This is a must have book on the shelf for a treatment giver and clinicians in the field. I specifically like how he can relate as a expert in the field and a treatment giver of a kid with autism. I was embraced in the points of this reserve and how it identifies the struggles of a care giver and the obstacles a treatment giver faces in the looking after their loved ones.
