This book was created out of a personal need in my own life. My daughter was born with Down syndrome and I recall how I longed to sit down and talk to someone about all the emotions you experience when receiving a special needs medical diagnosis. I felt lost and alone and unsure concerning how to proceed. Continue reading and God bless you on this journey. A few of the answers will make you laugh out loud, some might make you cry, but they are right from my center to yours. I sat down and began composing queries with answers I had longed for so a long time earlier in my existence. I ask and answer these questions based on my own encounters down in the trenches. You'll be astonished at their simpleness. Some acquaintances of mine experienced a preemie born a few years ago and just last year got a fresh diagnosis that the youngster was on the Autism spectrum. I also include 6 Key Strategies for victorious caregiving abilities. You will receive grace along the way. The strategies are relevant and useful as you go through your entire day to day activities. These are honest, natural, and real-life questions. These are designed to help you today, right now, establish your new normal. This book is out to all or any the parents, family members, and caregivers dealing with someone you care about with special wants. Eighteen years later on, I offer you solace on your own unique special needs journey.
