

The background of the cover is a top-down view of various DIY makeup and skin care ingredients. It includes several small glass jars containing powders in shades of red, orange, purple, pink, and green. There are also larger containers, some with brushes or spoons resting in them. A prominent pink tube with a white cap is positioned diagonally in the lower-left quadrant. The overall aesthetic is clean and professional, with a focus on natural and handmade beauty products.

Kindle version is in need of help I must say I enjoy Marie's blog page and look forwards to each new post. The mascara is definitely a dried out mess that darkens but will not enhance. I have to say however that I think someone along the collection (publisher? But I'm back again to searching the internet for makeup dishes to try. Many of the fractional measurements appear to be images instead of actual text. They are very tiny & I simply don't feel in this manner with this make-up. This will become a serious addiction! (Example submitted with review) Consequently I'm unable to review this reserve predicated on its make-up formulas, as I really cannot read the amounts and consequently not able to make the products? I think the best alternative is normally they should republish using the correct format and offer it free of charge to those folks which have already purchased it. Have been waiting almost all year for this AMAZING book Let me just say how thrilled I am to leave this review. I've followed Marie on her blog for a long time, and I just adore her passion for diy cosmetics, skincare, and soap. I was concerned I would invest and become disappointed with the results and have each one of these weird ingredients. When this reserve arrived today, I was giddy with delight as I flipped through all the pages to look at her new quality recipes. Having made my own makeup for a few years, I am not really a novice but if you're, no worries. I also discovered that my face looked great throughout the day. Therefore fun too! In other words, they work! Now that might not look like a big deal for you, but that's a slippery slope as it's often tricky never to use a couple of chemicals to achieve long lasting lipstick and mineral make-up. In addition, I can tell she really centered on things that had been easy to resource. I was hesitant to get this publication and the materials because it's a large initial purchase (I spent $50 to get makeup making supplies, but I can make almost everything in the book. Most of the quality recipes are limited to 10 or less ingredients which also makes these quality recipes very beginner/budget friendly as who wants to buy 20 different elements to create lip balm? Not me! I bought this book so I could have solid formulas for makeup. I, myself, have been inspired to play with a few additional ingredients that I am not presently using. Purchased mineral make-up looks great on my skin. We was introduced to Marie's work via her blog and had just began making homemade soaps and lotions. As most people, I try to balance products which have ingredients I understand and know aren't bad for you and items that work! Many of the ingredients it's likely you'll discover locally, but if not really, she's an extensive list of stockists and suppliers at the end of the book for customers all around the *world*...I already had many of the oils and such from making soaps and lotion which means this was makeup specific supplies). She actually is witty and smart and her personality is certainly reflected wonderfully in her composing. However, makeup making became successful! In about one hour I was able to make a concealer, make-up, and airbrushing powder. I'm in my own mid-30s with some large pores and fine lines showing. It's not really a lotion soaping and craft reserve it's a makeup Great book Excellent I love how simple this publication is and the descriptions of everything is held simple and flowing.. I enjoyed the coverage. There exists a plethora of background info on ingredients and techniques so that you can feel very comfortable starting from scratch in developing your very own products at home. With my shop bought makeup I had to reapply each and every time I would go somewhere. fuzzy (yes, even when I make the font size bigger because it's a graphic, not text). I also tried both her long-wear and creamy vegan lipstick quality recipes. Let me say as anyone who has always struggled to make lipstick color selections, having the freedom to sit there and tweak my own lipstick color to my liking is a casino game changer. I used both carmine, brown and crimson oxides, and a mica for shimmer. In the future I'll order ultramarine to allow for a few more cool tints. Five Stars loved this book, therefore happy I ordered it and excited to get started making my own cosmetics.. I cherished the creamy recipe.. The colour is ok nonetheless it accentuates my pores. But be warned.. The balms and lotions are easy to create and the reserve is created in a manner that it is possible to follow easily as well as being able to follow without problems. she is giving you enough recipes to accomplish a complete cleansing, moisturizing, and make-up schedule all DIY. I look forward to trying more of the recipes out and possibly being free from the beauty sector... I don't want to create plenty of batches to master the formulas. This is a FABULOUS book!.. The mineral makeup is just ok. This is a FABULOUS book! I've sought out books on at-home cosmetic formulation and actually found hardly any and those that I did so find looked lacking. Marie's book is definitely a treasure! There are clear directions on formulating and blending colours, different options to select from if you like vegan recipes, and she makes YouTube video clips to correspond with issues in her book so that you can see what she's actually doing. Her website, Humblebee and Me, has oodles more recipes so that you can make and valuable information you need for formulating your personal cosmetic and personal care products. I love the primrose essential oil, but my outcomes with the makeup are disappointing. Marie's publication and website are you will need. The way that Marie approaches skincare in the book is actually nice. Nevertheless add that dry power to the liquid recipe and magic!. I've searched for books . This has rendered a lot of the book worthless to me as I simply cannot read the tiny, fuzzy images that describe the fractional quantities. Great Great book, recipes really work Great publication! Marie makes a concerted work to use as many natural ingredients as feasible in her recipes, yet she also evolves recipes that have become "professional" and "high end" in nature. It may be me, as I others experienced good results based on reviews. Good Good ideas Mixed results with recipes I love the concept of this book. I've serious medical issues and stay away from exposure to harmful chemicals. If you're looking into making your own products, look no further! She has a real talent and I'm happy she's chosen to share it with us. I'd really prefer a creamy mascara to go in a tube. I did so find a recipe from an internet site and am happy with the results, but not the publication recipe.. I've mature pores and skin and the mineral makeup looks unnatural. felt like it was doing great things to my lips and providing color! In conclusion, I highly recommend this publication at a treat for yourself or a loved one and I can't await potential books from Marie :) These recipes work! For a far more experienced diyer, you can use some of the recipes to tweak or experiment with some of your own recipes. now wouldn't that be amazing ladies?) did her an excellent disservice when it come to the Kindle edition of the book. Beautifully written, great recipes and you get to learn a lot approximately differnet ingredients. I came across the dry mineral makeup was too dried out and settled in my imperfections too very much.. I did feel that the long-plate on lipstick was a little bit dry: I needed to be sure my lips were moisturized before applying for it to work. :) Useful and easy to follow. I came across this book to end up being very useful. I purchased substances and made the mineral make-up, primrose oil, and mascara. The tips and instructions were obvious and practical.
