) sensory processing disorder loves it. Ours belongs to the University of Optometrists in Eyesight Advancement (for a referral). I likewise have found NAET (find naet. receives private OT providers and Eyesight Therapy; And I use homeopathy and Bach Flowers to help relaxed my sons. I have also discovered iodine tincture helps to keep my eldest calm. I did so like the art and the fact that the author and her kid shared their story in this way. My eldest do neurofeedback, which didn't help his ADHD, but did appear to help his SPD. The hard component about the available therapies is you don't know after that work until you've spent the money! This would be considered a good book to give to the family members to help them understand what your family is certainly going through.
