Courageous young woman Lesley Minervini is an extraordinary young female. Few teenage girls would have the guts to admit that they had alopecia, let alone write a book about it. I've shared this publication with all of my nieces and nephews. In this publication she describes the experience of her hair thinning including embarrassing occasions at high school.! Five Stars Lesley is amazing! She actually is deeply appreciative of how her friends and family helped her through this knowledge. < 3 Relatable It was very useful scanning this book and realizing that my teen had not been alone. She also has experienced similar stories like Leslie's. ENJOY! I would definitely recommend this book. This is what the young generation needs! Lesley's story is truly inspirational. It helps to learn how we can help them to cope with their changing condition. Confident, Bold, and Beautiful! We have children at our Church that have problems with the same condition. This reserve is honest, funny, inspiring, and more!.. Lesley suffers joyfully! Even as a male losing my own locks was bothering me, imagine a girl not having hair! Lesley's story continues to remind me what accurate beauty is focused on. Read her book, teen inspiration in its finest! She has an inward beauty exuding through her confidence that no outward beauty can compare to. Falling Out I found the book informative and enlightning. This is what I need! I had the enjoyment of working with Lesley on this project! Have got her speak! Thank you Lesley! A lot of people suffer. Lesley's desire was to write about her struggles and difficulties in a way that would help additional teens to find hope and a reason to keep smiling when existence seems mind-boggling. She nailed it! It really is inspiring and a straightforward read.
