"Your Greatness is Growing- Nurturing the Heart of Autism" is a celebration of a child throughout a typical time. This fun and rhyming publication, beautifully illustrated (almost completely) by kids on the spectrum, provides both reflections of successes that can be internalized by any child and the positive and relational vocabulary that creates these successes. Nurtured Heart Approach™ goes above and beyond praise by speaking right to the center, through the specificity and energy that is directed at what's going right. Parents and teachers will immediately recognize that the writer included in the day's events those areas that are often the most challenging factors of the day for kids on the spectrum and demonstrates how these occasions could be nurtured into contextual occasions of public learning and success(greatness). Greatness is internalized. This profoundly positive, romantic relationship based philosophy, produced by Glasser in the past due 1990s, is based on the energetic truth that we increase whatever we attend to. "Your Greatness is Growing- Nurturing the Center of Autism" is a snapshot of a time through the lens of Howard Glasser's Nurtured Heart Strategy™. We are able to grow the very behaviors/values/skills/competencies that people desire by tuning directly into all initiatives in the right direction and keeping them up as achievement. Children feel seen and appreciated,as abilities,values and emotions are called and honored, all in the context of positive interactions with significant adults. It magnifies, for kid and adult as well, all the ways that a child can experience success throughout the day, by just what adults choose to focus on, honor and name in the child. Success is definitely irrefutable and unavoidable, as adults basically reflect the truth of every new second. The Nurtured Heart Strategy™ may be the perfect basis to creating a tradition of positivity and achievement in any family or classroom. "Your Greatness is Growing- Nurturing the Center of Autism" is crucial for every adult who would like to bring out the greatness in a kid and for each and every child who wants to begin to feel the greatness that is already within.

Insights I ordered this book the moment it was published. than you Catherine for writing this book. I've caused these children. I came across the illustrations and inspiring confirmations would be extremely validating for these children. What was more profound for me was her examples of potentially troublesome occasions for these children that give me a greater understanding of what these children experience through their day. Some tips about what you've been looking forward to As a licensed psychologist in private practice, I have found The Nurtured Cardiovascular Approach to be highly effective as both a stand-alone-intervention or when integrated with other methods, no matter age. Catherine was educating me from her vast knowledge using the NHA with these and other children. I believe this publication is usually invaluable to all or any of us mixed up in lives of the amazing children and I encourage you to get your hands on a duplicate as quickly as you can. I know that my center will reach theirs in a far more personal way due to that compassion. This publication is a combined mix of the most efficient social emotional learning equipment that I understand: The Nurtured Heart Approach (the only strategy I use) + Children's Literature. They are vividly colored and done by kids on the spectrum. We am delighted to include this to my library of Nurtured Heart Books. PS Catherine's other books on The Nurtured Center Approach are similarly lovely! I can't wait to hear about lives changed. ! I highly recommend this reserve for particular educators or parents with children with special requirements (specifically Autism). The book's foundation lies in the Nurtured Heart Strategy (by Howard Glasser). This approach shows to be impressive for ANY child, but much work shows it's incredible achievement with intense children and children with special needs. We utilize a number of clients identified as becoming along the Austic Spectrum as well as their very brave, committed and devoted families. One must read simply the photos. In my use children with Autism I find the passages in this book help myself to more easily put into words the greatness I find in these particular children . Parents and Educators: Buy THIS reserve! See how children with autism show Greatness! Your Greatness is Growing- Nurturing the Heart of Autism This book exudes GREATNESS! I just wished to say I've received and browse Catherine Stafford's new publication, " Your Greatness keeps growing: Nurturing the Heart of Autism". It is fantastic and spot on in the way she recognizes the Greatness in kids on the autism spectrum. I love the book so much that I purchased it for friend who also works with kids with Autism. She knows these kids! I will be using this a whole lot as I teach households how to appreciate their kids with autism.. Just what a gift that is to parents AND something special to the kiddos, as well. Thank you! Catherine, that is spectacular. From my heart I love this publication.. Plus, it is beautifully illustrated. This publication is innovative, creative, gorgeous, and mind-blowing inside our field!.. and in all kids. She hits all the areas that are common challenges: dealing with rooms that are too loud, having an unexpected meal, needing to increase your hands and wait to be known as on, etc,etc. As I read this reserve, I could knowledge it from the viewpoint as a child with autism...it really is obviously a publication from your heart to the heart of kids! My compassion for them grew, and this would make nurturing their heart so much more genuine and frequent. As a college psychologist I am an enormous supporter in using children's literature when functioning 1:1 or in a little group setting with children on social/behavioral/psychological goals. Our treatment programs consistently include the NHA. Your Greatness is Growing requirements to be in every elementary schools! under no circumstances likely to grow in my understanding of kids on the spectrum as I read her book. We now have a source of information and guidance based on the NHA and particular to this this audience. As a school psychologist who works with kids on the autism spectrum and other children who have a problem with social abilities this book is absolutely nothing short of brilliant. This can help the kid see all the little items they are doing perform matter plus they are noticed -- greatness grows. The goal is to look at the day in the life of a kid as a series of successes and celebrating all of the little stuff performed in a explicit way typical to a social story. I am in a position to use it in the classroom and I am able to share with parents. My teachers equally love this book!
