Enter into a global behind closed doors, at least closed to the attention of the consumer. Witness the globe of McDonald's through the perspective of an worker's encounter. What you will find will shock you as you get an eyeful of the actions and conditions that exist within one McDonald's store. You will quickly realize that the worker is your best ally in deciding who you will do business with. Also talked about is the idea of customer democracy and the energy of the employee. The employee is our greatest advocate in finding the truth of how are you affected nowadays. Collectively they are the drive that sees, hears and understands everything that goes on in spaces that consumers are prohibited to venture. This publication of photos will enlighten you to the realities that the workers in this store observe every day. Do you want to know more? You might find that a few of these workers are silenced by some oppressive plans that preserve them from telling the buyer the realities which exist in the work space they occupy.
