Great, fun book with EASY projects (even for the non-crafty) I have always been intimidated with any DIY beauty-type projects. Even better, I gained a lot of self-confidence that I can actually make these exact things. Stephanie Rose hit it outta the recreation area with this one because this publication is super wise --- it shows you exactly how to make bath bombs, salts, scrubs, foot soaks, massage bars, perfume, and lip balm with illustrative photos that I adore. It offers very approachable projects that are basic and quite quick to make. 2. The nice factor is that the quality recipes appear to make enough to give some away and maintain some for myself. I got mentally ready myself for a Pinterest-style fail, however they look amazing (see picture). Not long ago i made the calendula lotion bars and they came out so great. I'm not super crafty and everything seemed very chemistry-like to me (I wasn't proficient at chemistry either). The book itself would be a fantastic gift, but I think I'll keep it for myself and make plenty of other gifts from it. It walks you through every stage of the process, because of adorable packaging ideas. We don't have kids, but I would imagine that these will be great projects to do with children too. So pleased I took the plunge and offered one of these recipes a go. Excellent Gorgeous Full Color Photo How-To Guide I just got the Home Apothecary publication in my own mailbox and We AM LOVING the full color photos. House Apothecary has a handful of great things choosing it: 1. This is an excellent gift reserve for the holidays in addition to a great guide for you to make all these gifts for birthday and holiday gift-giving. Super easy techniques, great photos, and complete botanical ingredient recipes makes this book a lovely and easy-to-use guide.
