The Army's 10th Mountain Division, developed during World Battle II for combat missions in the mountains of northern Italy, evolved into ski patrols as we realize them today. Relying heavily on the fellow patrollers, life-long friendships are forged on the mountain and frequently embellished in legendary tales--many which are shared within. In Colorado, ski patrol is continuing to grow from a volunteer procedure to a professional workforce--incorporating advancements in lifesaving methods, avalanche forecasting, and specialised guest services. Far-reaching and nuanced, the work of a ski patroller combines long days, physically demanding function in high alpine conditions, and the capability to react to complex medical emergencies.
