It had been the railway's Titanic. Territorials setting off for battle on a distant battlefield, they were decrease instead on home soil – victims, it was said, of critical incompetence and a shoddy regard for method in the signal package, Two signalmen were sent to prison. The positioning was the isolated signal box at Quintinshill, on the Anglo-Scottish border near Gretna; the date, 22 May 1915, Most of the casualties were Scottish soldiers on the way to fight in the Gallipoli marketing campaign. An horrific crash including five trains where 226 died and 246 were injured, it remains the most severe disaster in the lengthy history of Britain's rail network. The Quintinshill Conspiracy – The Shocking True Tale Behind Britain's Most severe Rail Disaster, exposes what actually happened – and why. But startling brand-new evidence reveals that the failures which resulted in the disaster were a lot more complex and wide-reaching than signaling negligence.
