Misleading and just ordinary WRONG and INACCURATE information provided in this reserve..If I could provide a negative star I would! There is no such thing as the above essential natural oils. Over all.The writer contradicts herself and to me that is completely unprofessional, and leads the reader to believe the author will not know what she believes herself or what she even knows.! It's good.The one that could cause problems for some people may be the recipe that calls for Cinnamon... Cinnamon has the effect of irritating or inflaming the uppermost layer of the lips due to which the blood circulation of this type increases...Adding Tea Tree Oil to your lip balm....! So I am answering this for everybody, as I believe it needs to be stated.WOW! Also, how exactly to add more dampness to it.. Why should you research? To most Lemon Essential oil may be the same regardless of the process it had been made. Because cool pressed Lime and Lemon oil could cause photosensitivity but Steam Distilled will not....More than once I have already been asked about the above listed essential oils and where you can buy them, easily will get them in, if they exist, etc. Is definitely she just reading numerous books and cramming them into a reserve of her own without real research, understanding or conviction of her personal?!Recommending Phototoxic Essential natural oils to your lips without any education or disclaimer!You measure a tsp of beeswax grated up vs pellets and you also have way too much bees wax with the grated wax. Yes, this may contain a small amount but do you know if you will react to it in the event that you lick your lips?There should be a disclaimer or something... So you know it really is your lip balm that is making your stomach upset, causing you to sleepy, diarrhea or confusion each and every time you lick your lips.I really do not claim to be an "Essential oil" professional therefore when someone writes a publication and incorrect / misleading information it really is quite frustrating if you ask me.There is no such thing as Apple GAS or Strawberry ESSENTIAL OIL....There's Fruit Extracts, Fruit infused Oils and Fragrance oils but they are Not really essential oils.Don't get me wrong about the "Butter Cream" Essential oil!Just looking for what is an important oil and Wikipedia or reading books about essential oils the author could have found all this information out. Granted tea tree flavor nasty, therefore i would never consider putting in a lip product. Since the things she is claiming to become essential oils are not.. That means they're fragrance natural oils. But I do inform people I provide or sell from what is definitely in them and offer them with a disclaimer.Don't misunderstand me, I add hot natural oils and citrus to my lip products.Most fragrance oils are manufactured with chemicals so how can they be Organic? The same with tea tree oil in my face wash products.I will not go in to the "ORGANIC" claims.Some of the basic simple recipes are great... But anyone who makes products and who want to possess the same results each time they help to make the same recipe has learned not to make use of measuring spoons or measuring cups. You cannot call something organic without knowledge of what organic truly is. Tea tree essential oil is toxic when taken by mouth. Lip balm Everybody loves the lip balms!It appears the author is more worried about sales after that what the client results will be. No such thing as Strawberry GAS! You need to measure by weight not quantity. Limpet shall we?Pigments aren't organic because they come from the planet earth. You cannot use a purple pigment to color something and call it organic,it isn't.Most Citrus oils cause Photosensitivity, if you don't do your study you wind up with sunburned lips.Strawberry is not an important oil. Direction on how to proceed if it doesn't come out right.In case you are composing a book about organic, Please study your info.. Don't lifeless by yourself simple because you can find those who will look to you because the expert and follow your guidelines to the letter..The list of essential oils continues on and on:StrawberryCranberryBlueberryRaspberryPineappleCoconutCucumberPomegranateWatermelonCantaloupeHoneydew (and any other type of melon)FigLychee(some florals also fit into this category such as Lily of the Valley and Lilac).Recommending TOXIC Essential oils to your lips without any education or disclaimer!!The writer is Unprofessional due to her Misleading and just plain WRONG and INACCURATE information provided in this book. Great recipes! Loved the book. It had been a easy quick examine which is as it ought to be. No one really wants to spend two weeks reading about every lip or balm details. We want to obtain to the idea! The how to! I'd have given it 5 superstars if there have been picture. I know, I know, pictures are expensive but you miss them specifically in ebooks. It's good. May need a little more info added for . Allow's make our lips swell up like the Incredible Mr. Do your own research before using any recipe that calls for an Essential Oil in this book unless you wish swollen or sunburned lips. She makes comments about how bad the essential oils are that produce you feel an instant tingle and how they ruin your lips and calls them out by name in the first part of the book, then a few pages later on she's recipes offering the same oils as well as other "Hot" Essential oils. May need a little more information added for recipe mishaps that are common.. I don't know about you, but I really do not want my lips getting sunburnt. You can clearly show that the author did not do any real study. It is a easy browse and I like this author. Three Stars Simply written. Easy to understand. Simple recipes for the beginner. Nice This was a great book it had been interesting and informative. Quick browse though, not bad. The recipes are easy to follow also. Good information We definitely learned a few things in this book, which will be useful as I make my own lip balm Four Stars An easy task to follow instructions and easy to obtain ingredients. For the person who does not value consistency in what they help to make then this will not matter, but again... The author should have noted this for people.!! Great ideas Love it! You need this we love these recipes they make great lip balm Five Stars Great and informative Five Stars made easy to make
