

What's Said in the Chair, Stays in the Chair

(So get in my chair and I'll tell you)

DEBBIE McROBERTS

Debbie McRoberts

What's Said in the Chair, Stays in the Chair: (So get in my chair and I'll tell you)

continue reading

Her clients have obliged and graciously shared their lives with her. Although her house and various other physical landmarks are long gone, Debbie can still make the four-hour drive and reminisce. She wanted to make it her profession. Soon, Debbie wasn't content material to just style her own hair. A very important factor she fondly remembers is usually all the different haircuts she chose for herself as an adolescent. Throughout the humorous moments, Debbie shows precisely how important hairstyling would be to her and the enthusiasm and dedication that required her out of her small-town lifestyle and into big-city dreams. Her clients in Portland, Oregon, involve some stories to tell... From the first day of beauty school to her current salon, Debbie has always looked for the laughter in the little occasions. Hairstylist Debbie McRoberts grew up in a town that's no more there. Debbie has an hearing for the strange stories but also an authentic love for her regulars. Debbie loves stories just as much as she loves memories, and this brand-new memoir chronicles her own journey to learning to be a professional stylist and some of the more interesting, kooky, and downright bizarre customers who've sat in her seat.

continue reading

