This true story chronicles a mother's journey of trials and doubts, faith and triumph, through the rocky terrain of her son's life with Asperger syndrome, bipolar disorder, despair, and addiction. The reader includes a mom's-eye view of the difficulties she and her family members face because they navigate through the general public school system, private rehab applications, the Texas justice system, and normal existence as evangelical Christians with a child who doesn't seem to "fit the mold" of expectation in any given system, aside from in his very own mother's notion of what her first son would be like. This ongoing tale is full of victory, but more essential than any single result may be the fruit of peace and joy that was discovered along the way as the author thought we would offer up all outcomes to the only One who loves better than a mom, whose signature moves are redemption, curing, and rescue. While frightening and unpleasant at times, this is one mother's story of faith and surrender in the face of insurmountable obstacles and of God's presence and faithfulness over decades of time.
