My higher power provided me the strength to tell my story to greatly help other people. In addition, it tells the joys and joy I have already been blessed with. But did he? No, my True Blue Friend lied to me. Acquired me believing I couldn't perform anything without him. My goal would be to not let him be successful. His goal was to find me suffer and die. It had been so hard to flee from his grasp, but once I did so, I realized he wasn't my pal, he was my biggest enemy. My higher power pulled me from the gates of hell to show me a new way of life and has never left my side. Accurate Blue Friend is usually my disease. My tale is honest, sad, real life events without desire to return from what I was. My Accurate Blue Friend showed me a great time, took me to numerous great areas, gave me the strength I needed to talk to people without fear. The high I was chasing those years by using my Accurate Blue Friend, I found without him right here in recovery assisting others.
