Very moving What really struck me as I go through this publication was the commonality of experiences when you get right down to it. The necessity to feel significant, recognized and connected. This book goes through a journey with a real hope for connection. I think I would like to experience one of these weekends just to feel part of what they felt as well as perhaps experience the life change they spoke of. Thanks for the publication, your heart as well as your work. However they don't remain in their pain, because each participant speaks truth - the balm that brings freedom - into one another's wounds, supporting them to get healing within their lives. Regardless of how different we are, we bring around the same forms of baggage and yearn for the same forms of healing. Opens a Windows to Story Moon Shadow Lodge is a book about stories. The tales unfolded in Moon Shadow Lodge display us precisely how terrifying and wonderfully redemptive it can be to share our tales and ourselves with people we by no means knew were just like us. Life Changing Impact My life is a story. I found myself grieving as tales were informed and smiling as interactions developed outside of storytelling time. This content of this book offers helped to usher in accurate, life-changing impact. It offers stories but it is really about the significance of Story inside our human experience. The best way to read this wonderful book is to experience it rather than study it. If you also are looking for a book to help you grow, buy that one and take the time to "Appear Inside"! There's power in posting our tales with one another. I found just a little piece of me in every of the stories I read. The publication is expertly written in a way that I found SO easy to understand and apply to me. Place yourself in the middle of the group as tales are being informed. I found myself relating to the storytellers however, not the types that I'd have expected. You understand a publication resonates when it places a lump in your throat which is what happened to me. My tales are weaved and are weaving together to one BIG story! Most of my very own personal storytelling has been in the context of men's recovery groups even though it has been good, what the authors describe in Feeling Shadow is more intentional and guided. By bravely searching inside we find tales that have shaped our lives. Stories are an important part of life. It can take a lifetime to discover our stories therefore I can see the advantage of this approach. Definitely Worth Reading This original book encourages you to open the entranceway and look past stereotypes to start to see the true humanity and complex reality of others. The Brown's book throws back the curtains of 1 of their Story Retreats and provides the reader a chance to eavesdrop on the tales of normal people, with regular lives, with regular struggles. This book takes the reader on a journey- 10 people's journeys actually. After experiencing life modification through exploring my tale in depth at several retreats through Look Inside Ministries today we reach read about stories which are real ! We all begin our trip with the human being condition, but where will we property? One worth of the retreat is the listening ear and comments of the group exceptional weekend together. All their varying perspectives of each other's childhood stories lead to digging deeper into unpleasant and traumatic burdens but also results in growth through an extraordinary process of pain, understanding, and occasionally healing. The reader can not help but explore his own stories while reading and wonder what others would say if he had the courage to explore his story with them and Look Inside. To reconnect in a real way. I came across this book to be readable and and relate-able, two characteristics that lend universal charm. Come go to scenic Moon Shadow Lodge with real-life married couple Francie and Rob because they lead 8 individuals - 4 men and 4 women - through the vulnerable procedure for sharing key stories in their lives that were instrumental in shaping their thoughts, beliefs and actions. This book has very much to offer not the least which is a robust definition of faith. Find yourself through somebody else's story Its fascinating to read about people who come from such "different" locations watching them learn, grow and connect with each other. This brings hope that their lives can change for the better. Most of us have stories to tell: it's section of our humanity. This reserve reveals common styles of addiction, abuse, reduction, shame and betrayal in the retreat individuals' lives. Who understands? When you, "Appear Inside", you might find stories not unlike your very own. I know We am personally emboldened to share something of my very own knowledge after hearing others talk about theirs. walking hand and hand with them, enjoying a meal or campfire with them, hearing their tales, shedding tears with them, and posting in the celebration of their improvement and victory. Natural, Revealing & The heroes face a few of the lies that they thought about themselves through these tales, which are a few of the same lies I believe. Assumptions push us to conclusions that business lead us down paths of personal destruction. Look Inside s a romantic glimpse in to the beautifully interwoven tales of 8 strangers, because they begin to unpack one little bit of their lifestyle and try to make sense of it. As the characters share their stories, the reader cannot help but face the reality that life doesn't discriminate with suffering but it's the illusions we hide behind that wall us faraway from connecting. The emotions shared are real and the pain, impactful and moving. Opened my eyes to new views upon my life experiences. Opened my eye to new views on my life encounters. In reading the tales of these people, I wonder if the scars I bare are so quickly revealed. Your story matters! You can find parts in every one of their tales that I could connect to. Connection I believe we all crave connection. I experienced like I knew all the 8 individuals intimately after reading their tales and could relate to all of them. While each one of these people felt a lot of the same, the different ways that each reacted to not having those things within their lives was therefore sad. I possibly could identify with many of the stories that were shared and could consider the observations from their website to some return clarity, honor, kindness basic safety, and development to my own life. This is an encouraging start to explore your personal stories and the tales of these you love. Most of us have stories to talk about! This is certainly a game changer. Am I also able to recognize them? This is sooooo cool! The journeys all begin with the human being condition, and where they property may also be uncomfortable but always surprisingly progressive!! (20). Thank you for sharing these with the globe so that they can see their dependence on Jesus!! He is the best story writer! The Power of Story There is power in story. Maybe that is why Jesus so often told a tale as He was teaching. In "Look Inside" the authors take us on a trip with them through the individuals' stories. As every individual shares their tale (names have already been changed to safeguard confidentiality), others share their responses, affirming and validating the pain, shame, sorrow, humiliation that every must have sensed as their tale unfolded in real time. Regarding to Francie, "'Faith is built on tales where there was a rescue and shattered when there is not'" (p. Our stories are so unique and powerful! In fact, shepherd is a better descriptor than guideline. And if we appear inside with Jesus we look for a God who was generally present. I encourage you to learn the book and have Jesus to show you which stories He would like you to discover with Him. I could not be more intrigued to how easily a group of strangers could find revelations that obviously will alter their insights into themselves. Excellent work, thanks a lot Rob and Francie for posting. Suggest to EVERYONE, I believe any walk of lifestyle could benefit! Thank you for sharing! We all have stories which have affected us and often for reasons that people don't understand. This book takes you on a romantic journey with 8 people attending a story retreat. The reserve is created in a manner that allows you to trip with the participants right from the start to the end of the retreat. It feels as though you are there with them; End up being encouraged and influenced after reading these brave individuals' stories that there is hope and healing available to your daily life, as well. The emptiness of social media marketing and the pressure to just expose the "perfect" part of life has left me simply cold. The very best part about it was the healing and self-realization I experienced reading this book. It creates me desire to sit back at a campfire with the Browns and have a look inside. Relatable In a world filled with social media marketing staged lives, it's often hard to keep in mind how broken we all can experience. It helped me to realize I was not only in believing these lies and spoke truth into those lies. I'd highly recommend this reserve to everyone. We all have stories and we all possess lies about ourselves that require to be broken, healed, and changed with truth. Moon Shadow Lodge opens a windowpane to what that procedure might appear to be for each folks. In addition, it inspires you to think about the meaning of life as well as your connection with other folks. It is a breath of oxygen in a world that can be progressively shallow and superficial.
