Through interacting with and hearing her autistic friends and son, she started to understand the autistic learning style and to decipher the many behavioural needs that occur from their particular sensory processing. This publication can help parents, teachers and professionals to learn how to interact meaningfully with autistic kids, continuously enhance conversation and produce long-lasting changes. Through her questioning of traditional approaches regarding autism, and with determination and patience, Florida Stone has been able to develop a satisfying and supportive two-way channel of communication with her once nonverbal and solitary autistic son. In this inspiring, much-needed guide she presents means of creating autistic-friendly environments, modifying traditional responses to autistic behaviour and using literal learning, and many useful illustrations and exercises. In Autism – The Eighth Color of the Rainbow Florida displays how shared meanings can be learnt and expressed between autistic and non-autistic individuals, though they experience radically different perceptions of reality.
